

PE Committee Report for 2002-2003
Tom Moore, Chair

The 2002-2003 academic year was uneventful from the standpoint of policy and administration within the Midwest Conference.

In the fall, the faculty and athletic representatives listened to a report on the future of Division III by Leon Lunder, the Athletics Director at Carleton, who has been part of a discussion within the NCAA to examine the possible restructuring of the large and philosophically diverse set of schools comprising the current Division III.

In the spring, the representatives had a preliminary discussion of the conference's policy against red shirting and whether there is any interest in modifying it. A fall 2003 discussion was planned.
