

Scholars' Convocation, Thursday, Feb. 5, Herrick Chapel

This week's Scholars' Convocation, Not So Simple: The Life and Works of Langston Hughes, will be presented at 11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 5, in Herrick Chapel by Donna Akiba Sullivan Harper, associate professor of English at Spelman College and minority scholar-in-residence. Harper, who received her bachelor's degree in English from Oberlin College and her Ph.D. in American studies from Emory University, Atlanta, is the editor of The Return of Simple, a collection of Langston Hughes' landmark columns for the Chicago Defender in the 1940s, and Short Stories of Langston Hughes. She also is the author of Not So Simple: The 'Simple' stories by Langston Hughes.

At Spelman College, Harper teaches advanced composition, early and modern African American literature survey courses, honors freshman English and a seminar in African American literature. While at Grinnell, she is teaching a special course on "Voices and Techniques in the Works of Langston Hughes."

Black History Month

A schedule of activities celebrating Black History Month is an addendum to the Campus Memo.

Big Mountain Resisters on Midwestern Speaking Tour

On Tuesday, Feb. 10 at 12:00 p.m. in North Lounge, Kee Watchman, a Diné (Navaho) elder who has represented the Sovereign Diné Nation at the United Nations, Lawrence Altsisi, a resister from Big Mountain, and Chris Interpreter, Lawrence's nephew who is also a resister will discuss current human rights and environmental issues related to the Navajo relocation struggle. Watchman, Altsisi, and Interpreter represent three generations of Diné who are still struggling to remain on their ancestral lands near Big Mountain. Members of the Grinnell community are encouraged to bring a brown bag and to attend as their schedule allows. The visit is part of a month long speaking tour to raise awareness of their situation at Black Mesa, near Big Mountain Arizona.

Since 1974, and with the passage of P.L. 93-531, the Diné people at Big Mountain have been resisting relocation by the hands of the U.S. Government and Peabody Western Coal Company. Black Mesa is a land rich in coal, uranium, and other natural resources sought after by Peabody Coal and other energy companies. Although much of the American public knows of the current struggle at Big Mountain as an "ethnic land dispute" between the Hopi and Navajo tribes, this is a misrepresentation of the facts publicized by Peabody and the U.S. Government in order to facilitate the clearing of native lands for strip mining.

The speakers will be available for informal meetings on the evening of the 10th and the morning of the 11th. Please contact Sarah Wilcox @ 236-6295 for more information.

Chemistry Seminar

On Wednesday, February 4, at 4:30 p.m., in Science 2022, Andy Robertson, Department of Biochemistry, University of Iowa will give a talk entitled, Exploring the Many Molecular Conformations of Native Proteins. Professor Robertson's research interests are in protein folding and protein stability which he studies using NMR spectroscopy, thermodynamic methods, and site-directed mutagenesis. He will be on campus all day Wednesday and will have dinner with students following his seminar. Interested students should sign up for dinner on the list posted on the Chemistry Seminar bulletinboard.

Economics Department Robert's Lecture

On Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 4:15 p.m. in Science 2021, William Boal, from the Department of Economics at Drake University, will give a talk entitled, Monopsony in the Labor Market. Monopsony in labor markets occurs whenever employers possess

Fiction writer Frank Conroy

On Monday, Feb. 9 at 8:00 p.m. in South Lounge, fiction writer Frank Conroy, whose works include Body & Soul, will read from his work. The reading is sponsored by the English department. Conroy is the director of University of Iowa's Writer's Workshop.

Conroy's often-studied autobiographical work, Stop-Time, displays his belief that writing should present an assertion of self in response to the world. As an author who writes for both scholarly and popular presses, Conroy says he believes that discipline and regimen are two crucial aspects to the writing process. "Writers don't simply put words [together] and then the reader decodes them, rather the energy of the writers and readers must overlap," he says.

Conroy, whose credits include short stories and articles in the New Yorker, the New York Times Sunday Magazine, Vanity Fair and GQ, is currently working on a new novel, a chapter of which will appear in Esquire's summer fiction issue. Stop-Time was a National Book Award Nominee, and Conroy has received Guggenheim Foundation and Rockefeller Foundation scholarships. He received a bachelor's degree in English from Haverford College.

Historian Lillian Guerra to Speak on Cuban Memories of Jose Marti

On Monday, Feb. 9 at 4:15 p.m. in ARH 102, historian Lillian Guerra will give a talk entitled Monuments, Memoirs, and Texts: Remembering Josee Marti, Reconstructing Revolution. Ms. Guerra is a scholar of Puerto Rican and Cuban history and the author of the forthcoming book, Popular Expression and National Identity in Puerto Rico: The Struggle for Self, Community, and Nation, which is based on her award-winning masters thesis. Her talk on José Martí forms part of her dissertation in progress at the University of Wisconsin on José Martí and Cuban nationalism. She has recently returned from a year-long research sojourn in Cuba, where she lived with her relatives while researching in Cuban archives and interacting with Cuban scholars. Ms. Guerra will be visiting classes and meeting with students and faculty. She would be happy to discuss both the historical legacies of José Martí and the current situation of Cuba today.

A century ago, Cubans became independent from Spain, only to find themselves struggling to define a national identity in the shadow of the United States. The History Department, the Latin American Studies Program, and the Roberts Lecturship are sponsoring this talk for the centennial of the Spanish-Cuban-American War of 1898. Refreshments will be provided.

Physicist Heidi Fearn Speaks

On Tuesday, Feb. 3 at 11 a.m. in Science 1023, Heidi Fearn, a physicist at California State University at Fullerton, will give a talk entitled, The Aharonov-Bohm Effect. The lecture is sponsored by the physics department.

Only recently has experimental evidence verified that the Aharonov-Bohm Effect, an exotic quantum-mechanical effect, truly does take place: two beams of electrons traveling in a region of space with zero magnetic field can be influenced by the magnetic field in another region of space which they do not traverse, Fearn says. She will explain the effect, what it means and its interpretation in terms of quantum physics.

Women and Development in Southern Africa Symposium, February 10-12

Women and Development in Southern Africa will be the topic of a three-day symposium February 10-12, sponsored by the Rosenfield Program in Public Affairs, International Relations and Human. All events, except for the scholars' convocation by Carol B. Thompson, will be held in the South Lounge of the Forum. Speakers include:

•Tandeka C. Nkiwane, lecturer in the Department of Politics and Administration at the University of Zimbabwe. The title of Nkiwane's lecture, which will be held at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10, is Women, Politics and the Law in Southern Africa.

•Ravai Marindo, professor of demography at the University of Zimbabwe. The title of Marindo's lecture, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 10, is The Mortality Situation in Southern Africa Facts and Fiction. Marindo also works for the Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies.

•Johnetta Richards, associate professor in the Department of Black Studies at San Francisco State University. The title of her lecture is Harsh Realities and Hard Choices: Women in Zimbabwe.

•Fadzai Gwaradzimba, deputy resident representative of the United Nations Development Program, Barbados Sub-Regional Office. Her lecture, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 11, is The United Nations and Mainstreaming Gender in Development: The Challenges and Promise.

•Carol B. Thompson, chair and professor of the Department of Political Science at Northern Arizona University, who will present the weekly scholars' convocation. The title of her lecture, at 11 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 12, in Herrick Chapel, is Bio(diversity): Women and Food Security in Southern Africa.

•Zaline Makini Roy-Campbell, an educational consultant from Syracuse, N.Y. The title of her lecture, at 4:15 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12, is Self-empowerment Through Language: Voices as a Dimension of Women in Development in Southern Africa.

A panel discussion, moderated by Solomon M. Nkiwane, Grinnell College Visiting Heath Professor in history and political science, will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 12. The title of the discussion is Women in Southern Africa: What Future?

Cultural Announcements

Chamber Music Series Concert

The third concert in the Music Department's Chamber Music Series takes place Sunday February 8, 1998 in Herrick Chapel at 7 p.m. Franz Schubert's perennially fresh Quintet in A Major for Piano and Strings (the "Trout") will be preceded by the first Iowa performance of György Ligeti's Trio for Horn, Violin and Piano. During the Second World War, Ligeti, a Hungarian Jew, was a forced laborer for the Nazis; his parents and brother perished at Auschwitz. With this landmark 1982 composition, Ligeti, now acknowledged as one of the most important European composers of the last quarter century, has created one of the most powerful expressions of grief and loss in all of music. Sunday's performers include guest artists William Preucil, viola; Kristin Thelander, horn; and Wayne Thelander, bass and Grinnell Music Faculty members Carey Bostian, cello; Nancy McFarland Gaub, violin; and Eugene Gaub, piano.

Cultural Film: Prisoner of the Mountain, Feb. 6-8

Prisoner of the Mountain, Russia, 1996. In Russian with English subtitles. Color/95 min. Directed by Sergei Bodrov, Jr. ARH 302, Friday/Saturday, 8 p.m., Sunday, 2 p.m.

Loosely based on Leo Tolstoy's Prisoner of the Caucasus, Sergei Bodrov's Prisoner of the Mountain is a lean and moving picture. A Chechen father in a remote mountain village holds prisoner two Russian soldiers, Vania (Oleg Menshikov) and Sacha (Sergei Bodrov, Jr.). His hopes of trading the hostages for his own son are destroyed by deceit, mistrust, and anger. However, Bodrov's skill as filmmaker relies not on his narrative powers, but on his treatment of the relationships between his characters. Vania and Sacha, shackled together in the Chechen village, grow together in ways that are comic and moving, but never trite. Meanwhile Bodrov makes the audience painfully aware of deep familial connections through grieving parents and budding - yet not sentimental - romance. The film is richly comic, subtly penetrating, intelligently political, and an insightful cultural commentary.

Next week's film: The Blue Eyes of Yonta, Guinea-Bissau, 1991)

Improv Troupe Performing

Ritalin Test Squad, the Grinnell Improvisation Troupe will be performing this Saturday, February 7, in the Arena Theater. The show will feature non-scripted comedy and long-form improvisation based on audience suggestions.

Performing Arts Film: The Game

The Game is a thriller. Michael Douglas plays a successful businessman who is accustomed to being in control of every facet of his well ordered life. However, everything changes when his brother gives him an unusual birthday gift-a game that has devastating consequences. Although the player is uncertain of the rules, or even the objective, it quickly becomes evident that the stakes of this game are very high. Sean Penn co-stars with Douglas. "The Sun-Times" said: "Is this a conspiracy, or what? It is surely not a game!" Thursday, February 5- 9:15 p.m. Harris. Next week's film: Glory

See Claudia Play Flute; See Robin Play Piano

The Department of Music will present a Faculty Recital by Claudia Anderson, flute, and Robin Guy, piano, on Saturday, February 7, at 3 p.m. in Herrick Chapel. Works to be performed are: Between Two Worlds (1982) by George Rochberg; Three Romances, Op. 94 (1849), by Robert Schumann; Sonata (1930) by Walter Piston; Jeux, sonatine pour flute et piano (1925) by Jacques Ibert; Duos for Flutes, Op. 34 (1974), by Robert Muczynski; and Three American Pieces (1993) by Lukas Foss. First-year student Rachel Chacko will play with Anderson on the Muczynski piece. Anderson teaches private flute lessons at Grinnell College as well as in Minneapolis and is the director of Fresh Flutes from Grinnell. Guy is an associate professor of piano and collaborative piano at the University of Northern Iowa and maintains an active concert schedule throughout the United States and South America. Yes. See Claudia. See Robin.

Tuesday Movie Madness: The Conversation

This harrowing and brilliant film on the ethical and moral dilemmas of wiretapping and its consequences on personal liberties is Coppola's best film outside of the Godfather series. Gene Hackman gives a bravura performance as a surveillance specialist who comes to question the propriety of his profession, only to become a victim himself. Hackman tearing his apartment to shreds is one of the most devastating sequences ever put to film. Supporting cast includes Robert Duvall, Allen Garfield, Frederic Forrest and a young Harrison Ford. USA, 1974, 113 minutes. Tuesday, Feb. 3, 10 p.m., Gardner Lounge.

Upcoming Music at Grinnell

Latin Reading Group

Latin Reading Group resumes this week, Thursday evening at 8 p.m. at the McKibbens' home, 916 Seventh Avenue. As Menaechmus (aka Sosicles) continues his inept, but lucky search for his twin, incidents of mistaken identity abound, and the weary traveler finds a more pleasurable 'voluptas' than he anticipated. All Latin readers who have passed through 222 or 225 or the equivalent are encouraged to come.

Library Announcements

•Submit Interlibrary Loan Requests Electronically

You may now enter interlibrary loan requests electronically using the library catalog (INNOPAC). Select option X>INTERLIBRARY LOAN REQUESTS from the main menu and complete the request form. Remember to type carefully and provide complete information for each item. For more information contact Russ Motta (ext. 3005) or Catherine Rod (ext. 4431).

•Library Lab

Library Lab is an individual research appointment initiated by the student (or other Grinnell campus member) to pursue research on a specific topic. Contact a reference librarian and set up an appointment. For more information on Library Lab, go to the Grinnell College Libraries WWW home page at <http://www.lib.grin.edu/services/liblab.html>

•Library Reserves

Students using reserve materials in Burlington or Windsor Science Libraries are reminded that overdue fines accrue quickly when the items are overdue. To ensure that materials you check out are immediately checked in, you should return them to the desk and not put them in the book drop during the hours the libraries are open.

•Library Notices Sent Via E-Mail

Grinnell College Libraries notices regarding Interlibrary Loan and Circulation are sent to the campus community via e-mail. Please check your account daily for messages about the arrival of Interlibrary Loan items, overdue items, and recalls and holds. If you have any questions, please see a reference librarian.

Frederick Baumann Prize

The Frederick Baumann Prize recognizes excellence in education by encouraging Grinnell college students to explore ideas and society in an interdisciplinary and historical context. Established in 1993 and funded by David '51 and Audrey Lowe '52 Hammer, the prize distinguishes the dynamic classroom contributions of Frederick Baumann, professor of history at Grinnell from 1927 to 1954.

Students from any department and any class interested in applying for the Frederick Baumann Prize must submit their scholarly work to the Associate Dean's Office by Monday, March 30, 1998. The $2,500 prize is awarded to the student who writes the best essay on the general topic of "Ideas and Society," taking an interdisciplinary and historical approach. The prize is awarded each spring if, in the opinion of the judges, there is an entry of prize-winning caliber. For more information, contact Jean Cousins in the Associate Dean's Office, Nollen 1st, ext. 3460.

Grinnell-Nanjing Teaching Fellowship

Each year Grinnell College appoints two of its graduates as teaching fellows to assist for an academic year teaching English at Number 11 High School, affiliated with Nanjing University in Nanjing, People's Republic of China. The Grinnell-Nanjing Teaching Fellowship allows these graduates to work closely with Chinese high school teachers and students while living with foreign students in the Foreign Student Dormitory at Nanjing University.

In selecting the Teaching Fellows, Grinnell College seeks native speakers of English who have an excellent command of oral and written English and who have experience in the study of another language. The candidates should have a sound knowledge of American culture and should demonstrate an interest in Chinese culture and history. The Grinnell-Nanjing Teaching Fellowship provides travel expenses, living expenses, and housing at the Foreign Student Dormitory. The Grinnell-Nanjing Teaching Fellows for 1997-98 are Rebecca Harms and Laura Wooley. Deadline for application is February 27, 1998. Fellowship applications are available in the Office of the Associate Dean of the College, Nollen 1st. Pamphlets are available in the college post office.

Joseph F. Wall Scholarship Reminder

All Faculty - Deadline for Nomination - Monday, Feb. 23. The Joseph F. Wall Scholarship is awarded annually to a student in the second semester of the junior year who has achieved an outstanding academic record and has, in the judgment of the selection committee, made a significant contribution to the college community. In addition to demonstrated excellence of performance in the curricular program, the student must also have shown responsible participation in one or more areas of extra-curricular activity. Financial need is one of the factors considered in the selection but is not necessarily the controlling determinant.

If you know of a junior deserving of this scholarship, please send the name and a paragraph of explanation for your choice to the Associate Dean of the College, Nollen House. The deadline for nominations is Monday, February 23, 1998.
